Notes: "The Anglican Church of Canada's General Synod has requested bishops and deans to focus, for 22 days, from May 31 to June 21 [2017], on renewing the church's commitment to support the work of the Anglican Fund for Healing and Reconciliation through prayers, participation in awareness-raising campaigns and donations. Early this year [2017], Council of General Synod (CoGS) agreed to dedicate the undesignated proceeds of Giving with Grace, General Synod's annual fundraising campaign, to replenish the fund. For the next five years, the fund -- created in 1992 as part of the Indian Residential Schools Settlement Agreement -- will focus on language recovery". General Secretary, Archdeacon Michael Thompson, "stressed that while the Anglican Church of Canada has met its legal obligations under the settlement agreement, 'we're far from finished with our spiritual and moral obligation to continue to support the healing work that is underway among those survivors and in those communities'."

Campaign raises $275K so far for Healing Fund

Notes: "Healing Fund co-ordinator Esther Wesley told CoGS that, as of June 22 [2017] Giving with Grace, the Anglican Church of Canada's annual fundraising campaign, had raised $26,000 in money directly designated for the fund, which supports Indigenous healing projects. Funds collected without any specific designation totalled $249,000, Wesley said. ... Thus a total of $275,000 has been raised for the fund by Giving with Grace to date in 2017. In 2015, Giving with Grace raised $515,000". "A key focus for the fund remains keeping Indigenous languages alive, as many of them reach a critical point in their existence". "Reconciliation was the theme of a number of sessions at the meeting of CoGS. On June 24 [2017], Melanie Delva, named the church's reconciliation animator last April [2017], gave a presentation introducing her role. Much of it, she said, would consist in 'forming, equipping and resourcing a national team to encourage and sustain local engagement in the work of reconciliation'".

Notes: Advertisement from the Anglican Church of Canada Resources for Mission Dept. "Welcome to the fresh face of Anglican generosity in support of God's mission through the ministries of the Anglican Church of Canada, 'Giving with Grace'. And thank you for all the ways in which you supported its predecessor, 'Anglican Appeal'. Why the change ? For one thing, the way we think about giving has changed over the years. We believe that people are giving with a deeper sense of purpose and see the church as a way to serve that purpose with their money. You aren't giving to the church so much as through the church. So it's not that we're appealing to you on behalf of something 'Anglican'. Instead we're inviting you to 'give with grace'. "For more information on Giving with Grace or to make a donation, please contact: Jacqueline Beckford, Manager, Annual Giving ... Giving with Grace, The Anglican Church of Canada".
